Question No.	RFQ Section	Question/Clarification
1		Website Updates: Please provide further insight into the level of effort required for the website updates? Three updates are referenced. Will those be primarily content updates, or will they involve heavy design/development work?
DBH RESPONSE – Regarding website updates, the microsite shall require design updates.
2		Photo Booth: To help keep costs lower, would DBH be open to using a digital photo booth option (e.g., tagkast) that would allow users to upload photos to their social media channels using a custom digital frame? This would be done instead of a traditional print-based photo booth.
DBH RESPONSE – The Department of Behavioral Health (DBH) wants attendees and participants to walk away from the events with a physical memory; the traditional Photo Booth is Mandatory.
3		Advertising: If Offeror is including substantial digital/social advertising in their recommendations, in addition to some traditional advertising (e.g., bus stop ads). Are there any special placements or budget requirements to bear in mind when developing the digital and traditional recommendations?
DBH RESPONSE: There is no need for an Offeror to submit substantial digital/social advertising recommendations; there are no advertising requirements except for developing on-site visual assets for each event. Keep in mind the page count limit placed on Proposals is 20 pages.
4		How do I ensure I get preference points? Does a DBE from WMATA count for credit?
DBH RESPONSE – In order to get Preference Points an Offeror must be a Certified Business Enterprise, Certified by the Department of Small and Local Business Development, Please Refer to Section M of the Solicitation

5		What does the pricing proposal consist of? Price schedule (per year and narrative) for example. Should it be limited to the items contained in the price schedule?
